THE CLIMAX.

FRENCH TIPTON, Wm. G. WHITE.
WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 19, 1887.

The Presidential party was in Atlanta, yesterday.

London has more than a thousand cases of scarlet fever.

Gen. Boulanger has been placed under arrest by the French Minister of War.

The Fidelity Bank of Cincinnati has declared a dividend of 25 per cent on its stockholders.

Crown Prince Frederick William, of Germany, is dying with the same disease that killed General Grant.

It is believed that Secretary Lamar will accept the vacancy on the Supreme Bench of the United States.

Judge Ewing introduced a resolution at the Bankers Convention, at Pittsburgh, favoring a rapid extinguishment of the national debt.

Rev. T. B. Demaree, of College Hill, this county, was elected Grand Worthy Chief Templar of Kentucky, at the meeting of the Grand Lodge in Louisville, last week.

John Ticklin, Democrat, was elected Mayor of Chattanooga, by a majority of one hundred and eighteen, on Tuesday of last week, notwithstanding that city has heretofore had a Republican majority of one thousand.

Judge Elliot, an aged and prominent jurist, delivered the address of welcome, at the reception of President Cleveland and party at Memphis. Just as the President had finished his response, Judge Elliot fell dead.

At last the Texas train robbers have tackled the right kind of an express messenger. Two robbers stopped a train near El Paso, and attempted to rob the express car. The messenger killed one with a pistol and the other with a shotgun. The messenger's name is Smith and he is from St. Louis.

A case from Danville demonstrates the adage that "all oaks from little acorns grow." The Advocate says:

"Bert Williams was detected selling about ten cents worth of whisky. He was tried in the Police Court, found guilty and fined $100. For the same offense he was indicted and fined $150 in the Circuit Court and now the United States Court has indicted him in the sum of $100 for selling the same drink of liquor. He has paid in all $400 for that one act of disobedience of the law, and it is not a cent too much."

The Minneapolis Tribune, a cordial hater of everything Democratic, was mean enough to severely criticize Mrs. Cleveland during the visit of the Presidential party to Minneapolis. A mob burned the editor in effigy, then went to the office and carried away a picture of the President that adorned the front of the office. They ought have burned the editor in person, and tore down his office.

The City Council met and by a vote of 26 to 7 adopted the following resolutions:

"Resolved, That we do hereby condemn the action of the Minneapolis Tribune in the publication of its libelous and insulting editorial article of October 12, 1887, and demand an apology therefrom and a suitable retraction."

A ridiculous possibility of the law to prevent foreigners from coming to the United States has developed in the city of New York. Trinity church, one of the oldest and most famous of America's great churches, was without a pastor. The Rev. Dr. E. Walpole Warren, of England, was called at a special salary. He landed at New York under protest, and now a warrant has been sworn out against the trustees of the church and against the captain of the ship, and the case will come up in the United States Court. The penalty against the Captain is a fine of one thousand dollars, and that against the Trustees even heavier.

In the same ship with the Rev. Dr. Warren were several skilled mechanics who were not allowed to land because they were under contract. But there were also in that ship a lot of dynamites, hoodlums, bums and red-handed Anarchists who were allowed to land even without protest as they were not under contract.

The law ought to be repealed. It is a farce, and not even an amusing one. If foreigners want to come to this country, they ought to be allowed to come. The most objectionable ones never come under contract. If the most objectionable ones come, notwithstanding the law, why object to others coming? It is an easy matter for them to come without a contract, but enter into one upon landing, or to keep their contract a secret.

THE CONTENTS.

Upon careful investigation you will find more matter in THE CLIMAX than you can read in five, or ten, or twenty, or thirty minutes. Glance over the editorial page and see if there are not several things of interest. Then take up the heads of "Matrimonial," "Died," "News Paragraphs," "Concerning Farmers," and "Thin Column," and read them carefully. If you take any interest in your community you can't help finding numerous items of value. The several local columns on the third page always contain information new to you. A glance at the advertisement will afford you additional news. You ought to know of the public sale that are to take place, and the various things offered for sale privately. See what merchants are keeping themselves before the public. Then you have completed an investigation of only the inside of the paper. Turn to the outside. There you will find more than a column on the great Red River country written by one who has recently been over the field. Among the "Opinions of Other Editors" you will get many ideas on the important questions of the day, both temporary and permanent. Glance down the Directory; you don't know half it contains. Changes continually occur. The local markets should be watched by all farmers and housekeepers, and we give a weekly report on the first page. On the fourth page will be found eight columns of good reading under the heads of Modern Tunnels; Ivory Gold and Silver Boudoir; Expensive Washington, Abolition of Perfumes, Facts for Farmers, Tiger Beetles, A Novelist's Dog, Movable Board Fences, Religious and Educational, Rust in Wheat, Wit and Wisdom, Blasting Stumps, Story of a Lawn Mower, and Suggestive Facts. Also some odds and ends of various things. If you will read THE CLIMAX through once, you will find it far more voluminous than you imagine.

A MADISON MAN ENCOUNTERS AN EARTHQUAKE.

THE CLIMAX takes the liberty to copy a portion of a private letter written by Capt. George W. Tipton, of this county, Superintendent of the Navesse Phosphate Company, Island of Navesse, West Indies, under date of October 5th:

"On the morning of the 23rd ult., about 7 o'clock, our little island was visited by an earthquake of considerable force, and of about seventy seconds duration. It came on with a low heavy, rumbling sound that appeared to be over, around, and below me. The vibrations seem to run North-east and Southwest. All of our buildings were shaken perceptibly. The house that I occupy is a large, two-story, heavy-framed structure, and the top appeared to vibrate fully four inches. Everything hanging on the walls was in motion, and small articles on shelves were thrown down. Two of my officers were walking along the railroad, over a trestle-work some three or four feet high. They reported that the road shook so violently that they judged off on the rocks (as there is no dirt) to find them behaving in the same way. At the shipping wharf, I have some derricks and shears, forty and fifty feet in height, supported by heavy, inch guy and backing chains, and they were jerked about as if they would be thrown from their positions. I had a ship anchor, weighing 800 pounds, suspended by a twenty-foot fall to one of the large derricks, to have the anchor in a convenient position to be painted, and the shock was so great that it caused the anchor to oscillate fully four feet. I mean four feet each way from its point of gravity, and in a north-east and south-west direction. I received a peculiar shock or sensation all through my body like that produced by a galvanic battery. I was also affected with a considerable nausea feeling for some time after, and others complained of the same strange feeling. We were all more or less shaken up and surprised; or, if I should say scared it probably would be nearer the truth. A colored man, who was helper in the blacksmith shop, when the bars of steel and iron began quivering and ringing, did not take time to go around the anvil, which happened to be between him and the door, but cleared the top of it at a bound, ran outside, looked up, and wildly exclaimed: "My God, what's dat shakin dis ship dat way?" One of our colored waiters, being asked what he thought of it, remarked with great seriousness and rolling eyes: "Wah! de de fulfillment of de scriptures dat de good book said dere would be wars and rumors of fights and that famines and pestilences and earthquakes would travel ober de world, and boss I thinks all a man can do is to be prepared and ready to de time, for you don't know, boss, when deys comin'." Good idea. I have listened to a two hours' sermon that did not endure as much.

The Brig Romance was coming into harbor, and about two miles out. Capt. Brown reports that the shock on board was very heavy, that the whole vessel shook from stem to stern and that the mast and rigging quivered in every part. For a moment he thought the vessel had run over something, or had run on "an unknown rock or reef. A Haytian trading vessel has been here since and the Captain informed me through an interpreter that on the same date the west coast of Hayti received a heavy shock, tumbling down some light houses. No one hurt, so far as he had heard, but many built scared. I fear by the next steamer I will hear that some of our neighboring Islands have fared much worse than we. The weather for some weeks previous to the shock had been unusually warm, dry and bright. Three or four nights after the shock, there was a heavy rain and the temperature now is about as usual. I have nothing else of importance to write. Shipping is getting some better. I am now loading the English barque, "Schen Heverden," with phosphate for Philadelphia, England, and an expected to leave English vessels soon. In a short time I will have plenty of American vessels. We are all joggling along pretty much in the same old groove. By every trip of the "Romance" some new men come out and some of the old far gone home, and so it'll come to my turn after awhile.

I have a new cook now who is a native of the Island of St. Helena, and says that the little pennies he ever made was when a little boy by leading tourists from the wharf to the grave of Napoleon. He never saw the bones, as the grave appeared up to the time he left a few years ago. He says his grandfather was one of the guards over the illustrious general. He says the grave said a small spot of ground around it are still attended with great care by the French. The grave stands open as it was left when the body was removed to France.

Yours of September 17th from Chicago, and a copy of the Cincinnati Enquirer of September 2nd, received today. Thanks for the paper. Would like to have been with you in Chicago. No, I don't suppose there are any of the old landmarks of Camp Douglas remaining, or any thing that was there in the vicinity, except perhaps the Douglas Institute. Had I been with you I could have found nothing to remind me of the days when I used to sit out under a black-jack, mending my old clothes and now and then killing a gray-back.

FROM A FORMER MADISON MAN.
BOSTON, MASS., Oct. 8, 1887.
Editors of The Climax:

I peruse with great care and interest your paper as it drops in on me weekly. It is an interesting paper of itself, but the fact that it is the only Kentucky representative that comes into our office makes it extremely enjoyable. It is the only home-like acquaintance that I have "in this strange land."

Your recent communication from "Tip" at Chicago was taken in with relish at this end of the line, as was his subsequent article from Cincinnati. The main point of interest in his Chicago epistle was his list of Kentucky "talents" who have their subjects tucked that fair city. It should be a matter of personal interest to every good citizen in Madison county to know what kind of people she turns out to the world, and if every citizen were as well "tucked up" as Chicago is, your people would have fair knowledge of the material you are capable of turning out. I often see a little note of what some former Madison county citizen is doing in other States and localities. In itself, it is not a matter of much importance, but whether I had ever known the party or not, I like to see what kind of a citizen you furnish other localities. As a rule, it is only the poorer class of people who leave Madison county to better their circumstances, and we do not hear much of them till we hear of them coming back "on the cowcatcher." So it is gratifying to hear of people in comfortable circumstances going away and making a success of their particular line elsewhere. It is also pleasant to hear that there are many thriving, prosperous, pushing business people still remaining in Richmond and throughout the county.

It has been several years since I was in Richmond or in Kentucky, except on flying visits, and I like to take your paper "because it helps me to 'keep the run' of changing and advancing events. Some six or eight years ago I knew everybody in Richmond, but now I presume I could recognize but few that I should meet on the street. Richmond is truly advancing, despite some references that I have noticed regarding her condition. Your strike for natural gas is a move in the right direction, whether you get the article sought for or not. There are certainly chances for it, and the Company formed to bore for it shows that there are citizens in your town who possess the "where-with" and the backbone to try to keep up with the times. Your recent disastrous fire was noted with much regret, as I used to be very well acquainted with some of the unfortunate losers. Another step towards the front is your fire department, weak though it may be to cope with such stubborn foes as around the streets of Richmond, a boy, with some of your present firemen, no doubt, no such thing as a fire department was known or thought of. I would say "proceed on, and go forth" with your good work, till you have such a force as can do battle with a Collier.

I like you may get that railroad through to the Northwest, so that when I come home, I can cut across the near way and come right through those mountains. I never owned a railroad, but it is my opinion that it pays to have such articles on hand. When Richmond grows to be a military city, business men can jump on the cars at Irvine and run down to business. That is the way we do things here.

To return to your Chicago letter. On reading the names and avocations of the various parties from Kentucky, I wished they were truly at the Hub. People having from "The Dark and Bloody Ground" are "bees as hens teeth" here. It has never been my good fortune to meet one of the afore-said parties in this city. I remember at the time of the great Old Fellow's day here about a year ago, I ran from "Dan to Beersheba" to get a glimpse of the "Bible" representative, but they abode not in any one place, and I saw them not. I venture to say that there are not half a dozen native Kentuckians in this city. Your humble servant is the only one that I have heard of. It is out of the natural order of events to originate Eastward. It has never been my good fortune to see but one single Kentuckian this side of Cincinnati, and that was Capt. Cook, the Kentucky giant. From a matrimonial standpoint, I should say "Come East, young man, come East."

We have 60,000 majority of the fair ones in this State. New York State has a larger surplus, but there are more people in that State, and the proportion is smaller. Besides these two States, the "Wooden Nutmeg" State has no quota to spare, and all the New England States, with one exception, have a majority of the feminine gender. We are open for competition in this special line. Financially, I should say come East if you have anything to do. If not, stay at home, or go West. We have a surplus of tramps also. Religiously we have a country fair to behold, and educationally, we are above question ahead of the world. On these four points, we unquestionably are the best inducements. To "young America," bacchanalian might be an inducement, but we can not make any promise on that score. I should say for such aspirants to head for St. Louis or Detroit. "For seeing the sights of the world" on a small amount of traveling funds, I know no part of the country where such can be seen in so short a time and in so small a compass. There are hundreds of enjoyable things to be seen in Boston, not to say anything about the many interesting things in fifty odd smaller cities of from 5,000 to 6,000 inhabitants. Each city has something that is worth seeing, either from its historical connection or from the value of beauty of the thing itself. Verily this little State is a panorama of things past and present, all combined.

THE CLIMAX.

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 19, 1887.

The bird law expires to-morrow.

Mr. Tom Tribble of the firm of Tribble & Blount, is sick with fever.

Col. T. S. Moberley's herd of Short-horns received all the first prizes at the Owensboro Fair last week.

Common Pleas Court is in session, Judge Thomas J. Scott presiding. There are 175 cases on the docket.

Mr. B. F. Watts, of Fayette county, formerly of this place, is now in this county in the interest of a nursery.

About thirty young people from Richmond and vicinity went out to Col. R. Estill's on last Friday and danced all day.

Adam Hill, an excellent blacksmith, who once lived at Elliston, this county, was the grand-father of Mrs. Jesse James. Mrs. James has a large number of relatives in the county.

W. P. Harvey, Jr., son of Rev. W. P. Harvey, Sr., of the Presbyterian church, and who has several times preached in Richmond, shot and killed James Coleman, at Harrodsburg, last week.

The fine old Estill place of 400 acres that has been in the family for more than a century, was sold at public sale on last Wednesday, but was bought by Mr. Robert Estill of Missouri, at $90 per acre, thus continuing in the family.

Mr. John L. Shuff, the exceedingly lively clerk who used to adorn the desk at the Garnett House, is now manager of the St. James Livery and Sale Stables, Jacksonville, Florida, the largest and finest livery stable in the South.

Sorrow's crown of sorrow seems to have fallen upon Hon. W. T. Tevis, of Richmond, one of the best of the good citizens of Madison county. Less than three months ago occurred the death of his young wife to whom he had been but a short time married. Yesterday his bright little ten-year-old son was thrown from a horse and killed—Courier-Journal 18th.

Sold to the Governor. Mr. John W. Fox sold in Lexington on last Friday, to His Excellency, Governor Simon Bolivar Buckner, a pair of two-year-old geldings, 16 hands high, for $200. They are known, as everybody heretofore knows, and Gen. Buckner is the best equipped Governor in the way of horses that the State has had since the war.

A Faithful Few. The receipt by Mrs. Candall of $2,000 the amount of a policy held by her husband, the late J. B. Candall, as a member of the Ancient Order of United Workmen, reminds us to say that there was once a lodge of that order here, but it was discontinued several years ago. There are now only three members of it left, John Taylor, Green B. Turley and R. L. Gentry.

Planning Mill Purchased. Messrs. J. B. Eason and E. W. Wiggins have bought the Richmond Planning Mill, and began running on Monday. The price was $12,000, but about $4,000 worth of logs were resold off the grounds, reducing the purchase to $8,000. The original cost of the property was $18,000. Mr. Eason is a contractor and builder of great experience and skill, thoroughly understands the business and will manage the mill. Mr. Wiggins is a hardware merchant in this place, is a good business man, and will manage the office of the mill.

A Bear in Jail. A Hungarian named Dudley was coming from Winchester to Richmond—Winchester's lion has solidified you know—with a pet bear, and scared Mr. Luther Dykes' horse making it run away and tear up things. Mr. Dykes followed the couple to Richmond, had them arrested and lodged in jail for having committed a nuisance. They were brought before the City Court and released on the principle that if the bear had got scared at the horse, run away and busted up Mr. Dudley, Mr. Dykes would not have been responsible, therefore Dudley was not responsible.

Ovariectomy. The first surgical operation ever performed in this county, for the removal of an ovarian tumor, so far as we can learn, was one in Richmond a week ago today. The patient was Miss Martha Smith, of this county, and she is recovering beyond the most sanguine expectation. If such cases terminate fatally, as they frequently do, the limit is forty-eight hours. The tumor weighed forty pounds. The operation was performed by Doctors Foster, Taylor, and Jennings. The patient was one of Dr. Foster's, and he called to his assistance the other gentlemen. There would doubtless have been entered a serious protest by the trio, if they had known their names were to appear in connection with the case, as it is considered unprofessional, but we take the liberty because they deserve vast praise for undertaking and successfully performing so rare and hazardous a performance.

"In Farris Parts." Mr. French Tipton, editor of THE CLIMAX, Richmond, Kentucky, made The International an agreeable call on Monday last. Mr. Tipton was on his first visit to the North-western States and being at the boundary concluded to run over to see what Her Majesty's domain looked like. He is immensely pleased with the Red River Valley and thinks his readers will accuse him of Munchausenism when they read his accounts of the prairie country and the vast wheat fields to be seen here. Mr. Tipton resides in the famous Blue-grass region of Kentucky, owned by the horses and great runners and trotters. He is an exceedingly pleasant and well informed gentleman, with a pleasing Southern accent that travel and intercourse with the Northerners since the "war" has failed to efface. Like most Southerners, he speaks of the colored people as "niggers," but unlike many looks upon the future of that abused and despised race as rather brighter than in former years, and reports that they are making fair progress in education and other matters. Mr. Tipton was the guest at the Russell House Monday for a trip over the Manitoba extension as far as Fort Belknap, Montana—Manitoba International.

Handkerchief Extricates.

Mr. J. J. Brooks has a fine and varied collection of Seely's handkerchief extricates at 25 cents to $5.00 per bottle. He orders in $150 lots, which is large even for a city house.

Killed by Accident.

On last Friday afternoon, Cyrus Tevis, eleven year-old son of ex-representative W. T. Tevis, was riding horseback on the Caldwell place, about two miles from town, on the Barnes Hill turnpike. The mare leaped a ditch, and his foot slipping through the stirrup leather—he was riding his father's saddle and had his feet in the leathers—he fell off and was dragged nearly a hundred yards. A colored man and a small son of Mr. Douglas who were with him, ran to him but he was dead. The shock was broken and he was considerably bruised about the head and breast. He was small and delicate. The burial occurred in the cemetery on Sunday afternoon. Mr. Tevis seems to have been in a line of distressing luck, and is entitled to great sympathy. He lost his young wife, then their infant, and now follows the sad death of a son.

MATRIMONIAL.

Mr. William Tucker, Green, of Bluffton, Georgia, and Miss Nannie Todd, daughter of Mrs. N. G. Todd, of the Concord vicinity, Madison county, Ky., were married at the home of the bride at 4 o'clock in the afternoon of Thursday, October 13th, 1887. Elder Milton Elliott of Kirksville, officiated. Only a few relatives and friends were present. A nice supper was spread immediately after the ceremony. The couple left on Monday and will take in the Atlanta Fair on their way home. Mr. Greene is a prominent planter and merchant in south-western Georgia. He came here a year ago to visit Mr. Cyrus T. Wells and buy a lot of mules for his plantation, met Miss Todd quite a pretty and attractive girl, and the acquaintance resulted in above set forth.

DIED.

Virgiline, infant daughter of B. and Ada Jowett, died at her home in Richmond, Ky., on Monday, October 17th, 1887.

Sally Doty, daughter of Dr. J. V. Doty, died of droup at the home of her parents in Fort Worth, Texas, on Saturday, October 8th, in the 7th year of her age. This is the second daughter that has died since the removal of the parents from this county to Fort Worth.

Mrs. Eliza Smith died at the home of her son, John Speed Smith, in Richmond, Ky., on Friday, October 14th, 1887, in the 96th year of her age. The funeral occurred in the Baptist church on Monday, and the burial in the Richmond cemetery.

Mrs. Smith was the mother of Rev. Green Clay Smith, Dr. C. C. Smith, Hon. J. Speed Smith, Mrs. Talbot, of Tennessee, and Mrs. David S. Goodloe, of Lexington, the last named being the mother of Hon. Wm. Cassius Goodloe, ex-Minister to Belgium, Maj. Green Clay Goodloe, of the Marine service, son-in-law of Senator James B. Beck, Dr. David S. and Judge Speed S. Goodloe. Mrs. Smith had six other children. She was the sister of Gen. Cassius M. Clay, ex-Minister to Russia, the late Hon. Brutus Clay, of Bourbon, and Mrs. Pauline Rodes, deceased, of Madison county. She had five other brothers and sisters. She was the widow of the late Hon. John Speed Smith, member of Congress, and daughter of Green Clay, Brigadier General in the war of 1812.

Mrs. Smith was a native of Madison county, a member of the Baptist church, and retained her faculties of sight, hearing and speech to her last day. She was an accomplished woman, and until recently when wheeled up to the piano in her invalid chair, played with skill many of the pieces she learned three quarters of a century ago.
